looked into it for a few seconds and it occurred to me on the steps of the court that I had travelled a very long way to see such snow.