

Indian Army officers confer in a fort on the Ladakh border, early 1950s. The Sikh officer (in turban) is Lieutenant General Kalwant Singh, who was GOC Jammu & Kashmir Division in 1948 and the Chief of General Staff in 1948–50. He was drafted into the committee in 1950 along with Major General Kumar Shri Himmatsinhji Jadeja, India's Deputy Defence Minister, to study the problems arising out of the Chinese aggression in Tibet and make necessary recommendations. Kalwant Singh retired in 1954 having served as GOC-in-C Western Command during 1953–54. (© Hulton-Deutsch Collection/CORBIS/Corbis via Getty Images)
