

An Indian Army column in Haji Pir Gorge, 13 September 1965. Haji Pir Pass was one of the routes of ingress used by the invading Pakistani troops and irregulars in August 1965 and its seizure was important to plug the Pakistani infiltration. A daring Indian Army operation led to its capture by 28 August but it came at a heavy cost, and it was inexplicably returned by India after the war. (AFP via Getty Images)