Finally, apart from the demand that they get 100 new party members, the BJP also doubled the membership fee of its sakriya sadasya from ₹100 to ₹200. 'Sakriya sadasya means that such a person can become a member of any party forum, can contest mandal president elections and district president elections also,' said Agarwal. 'So that gives an incentive to get 100 members if you want to rise in the party.'[24] The fee also created a more robust system of local funding. In Mathura, for example, of each ₹200 that came in from sakriya sadasya membership fees, half was kept for the district unit and half was sent to the state unit.
