one God. Muslims (those who believe in Islam) believe that Jesus and Moses were prophets, like Muhammad.

Muslims regard Mecca, a city in Saudi Arabia, as holy. Five times a day, Muslims turn in the direction of Mecca and pray. Muslims try to make a pilgrimage, or trip, to Mecca at least once in their lifetimes.

In ancient times, Muslims spread their religion over a large area, from North Africa to central Asia. The Mogul rulers were Muslims. However, they allowed their subjects to follow other religions.

At his birth, the future emperor was given the name Khurram. It meant "joyous." Just before he was born, a fortune-teller made a prediction to his grandfather's first wife, Ruqaiya. He said that this child would have a great future and be "more resplendent than the sun."
