CHAPTER 2
Young Lovers

During the New Year holiday season, the women of the palace always held a fair in the Red Fort. They sold things for charity. It was one of the few times when Muslim women could be seen in public without their veils.

