

In 1857, a rebellion called the Sepoy Mutiny broke out against the British East India Company. By this time, the Company had its own army. British soldiers harshly put down the rebels. And the last of the Mogul rulers was exiled. The Company destroyed much of the inside of the Red Fort in Delhi and used it as an army barracks.