

Modern India

Even though it was built nearly four hundred years ago, the Taj Mahal has become a symbol of modern India, the world's largest democracy. India has 1.2 billion people, the second-largest population in the world. Only China's is larger. Agra, where the Taj Mahal is located, is about 130 miles south of New Delhi, the nation's capital.

India is the birthplace of several different religions. Many languages are spoken within its borders. In the past, these differences prevented India from becoming united. Today, most of its people take great pride in their country's different traditions and cultures.
