CHAPTER 4
Growing and Learning

The huge Potala Palace stood high on a hill overlooking Lhasa. From the city below, its slanted walls made it look even taller than it really was. Chapels, prayer halls, offices, libraries, bedrooms, and even a dungeon filled its thirteen floors. The palace had more than a thousand rooms!

