refugees. (Refugees are people who have to leave their homelands to escape war or other dangers.) A huge welcome waited for them in Tezpur, India. About two hundred journalists from newspapers all over the world had gathered there. They were eager to hear about Tibet and meet its twenty-three-year-old leader.

