CHAPTER 8
Worldwide Celebrity

Winning the Nobel Peace Prize made the Dalai Lama famous all over the world. Everyone wanted to meet him. In just the few years after the award, he traveled to more than forty countries. He met government officials, religious leaders, professors, and journalists. The prize gave him a chance to give speeches to share his message of peace and compassion with more people than ever before.

The Dalai Lama meets with President Bill Clinton