myself that mere hiding the deed from parents was no departure from truth.