

Figure 3.14 Yakaulang, Saighan, and Kahmard Districts, western Bamiyan Province, Afghanistan. From Lee 2006: map 1.

Figure 3.15 Qala'-yi Gauhargin, western Yakaulang District, Bamiyan Province: south-east side. From Lee 2006: fig. 3.

footings by themselves do not indicate pre-Islamic construction. But the presence of pre-Islamic pottery fragments, even in lesser quantities than Islamic sherds, signal possible occupation of the site prior to the proposed twelfth-century date of the mihrab and its stucco revetment.[65] Furthermore, the overall plan of the structure, viz. four *ivan*s around a central courtyard