

Figure I.13 Congregational Mosque, Herat, interior: western iwan*, vault.*
© Photograph Alka Patel 2011.

monolithic, or even unidirectional. Not only has empire-building always occupied varying lengths of historical time, the regimes in question and their elites were often perceived differently, depending on the time and place within said empire – again evoking the poet Sana'i's homily of the