and between Kabul and the Afghan Taliban came to be readily accepted by the West as well as India and other regional powers. The conciliators' active chaperoning of India's Afghanistan policy after 2010 seemed to have been successful.