

The Soviets agreed to what some called a “strip search,” the American inspection of their ships carrying missiles back to the USSR. Here the USS Blandy approaches the Soviet cargo ship Divnogorsk. The captain of the Divnogorsk showed its R-12 medium-range missiles to the crew of the Blandy over the protests of the humiliated military commanders. The photo was taken by a KGB officer on November 9, 1962. (ARCHIVE OF THE STATE SECURITY SERVICE OF UKRAINE)