ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I am glad to perform the pleasant duty of any author and thank those who helped me most to research and write this book. I would like to start with the Harvard University History Department for granting me a sabbatical in the fall of 2018 and the Fulbright Program for helping me to spend it in Ukraine. I used part of the sabbatical to work on this book.

When it comes to primary sources and illustrative material used in the book, I am especially grateful to Andriy Kohut and Maria Panova at the Archives of the Security Service of Ukraine for making available to me as yet untapped KGB sources on the history of the Cuban missile crisis; to Svitlana Kovtun at the Archives of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Ukraine for initiating the declassification of formerly classified files; to Charles Borsos of the John F. Kennedy Presidential Library and Museum for his advice and help in acquiring the photos I use in this book; and to the Arkhipov family and Sven Lilienström of the Faces of Democracy Initiative for providing me with a photo of Captain Vasilii Arkhipov, one of the key figures in the crisis.

Turning to the manuscript itself, my thanks go to my colleague Myroslav Yurkevich, formerly of the University of Alberta, for editing the first draft of the manuscript, and to my colleague at Harvard, Fred Logevall, for very useful comments on the first draft. I am also grateful to Fred
