can win God's favour and redemption from one's sins (Hafez, 2009). Such a sect is hardly known in Pakistan, where Hanafi School of thought is largely followed, which strictly prohibits suicide. Ironically, the quick conclusion of most Pakistanis was proven wrong when it was revealed that an Egyptian Muslim had carried out the attack on the Egyptian embassy.

When Al Qaeda and its affiliates in the tribal areas of Pakistan became active after 2002, suicide bombing shocked the people of Pakistan. From 2002 to 2006, about 25 suicide attacks took place. It increased to 57 in 2007 and 61 in 2008 and reached the maximum of 90 in 2009. The year 2010 remained equally bad with more focus on Punjab, especially
