					The lashkar started chasing out the militants, who retaliated with suicide bombings, one of which killed scores of their armed rivals, including some tribal elders (Newsline [Karachi], October 2008). The Karwan-i-Niamatullah established its own Shari'a court in Pashat, the main town of the Salarzai area, but the group has since been uprooted from there.
30.	Mangal Bagh	Head of Taliban- styled Lashkar-e-Islam (LI) militant outfit. He belongs to Sipah sub-tribe of Afridi tribe. He enjoys his support base with Sipah and Shalobar tribes. He was reportedly killed in a suicide attack on a mosque in Tirah Valley in Khyber Agency on 2 March 2012. TTP Khyber Agency claimed the responsibility of this attack.	Lashkar-e-Islam.	Khyber Agency.	The LI styles itself as a puritanical militant group, which vows to remove vices from Khyber Agency, such as dens of criminals, drugs and smuggling of weapons. It was established in the Bara area of the Agency, which is inhabited by the Sipah sub-tribe, which is the smallest of the Afridi sub-tribes. Bagh regularly runs an FM radio channel in Tirah Valley of Khyber Agency, through which he delivers regular sermons to local Afridi tribesmen. The LI spokesperson, Muhammad Hussain, issued a denial on 9 March 2012, saying Mangal Bagh was not present on the site, and therefore was alive and well.
