				his followers in the July 2007 military operation against the fanatical clerics of the Lal Masjid in the heart of Islamabad. He developed differences and estrangementwith TTP central over unilaterally welcoming the talk offer of the Prime Minister of Pakistan Mian Muhammad Nawaz Sharif in August 2013. TTP central announced to evict him from their ranks for commenting without the approval of the high command, i.e. Hakimullah Mehsud. Mouavia retorted that he was not under their command. On 28 August 2013, TTP militants raided the Markaz (Centre) residence and some other hideouts of Asmatullah, but he had already gone underground due to expected reprisal of TTP.[1] In 2014, in the wake of military operation Zarb-e-Azb, Asmatullah announced to call off armed struggle in Pakistan (DAWN, 13 September 2014).
