9. Lahore CIA Police and Special Branch, Punjab reports.
10. Pakistan Intelligence source.
11. Interview with Usman Pannu (5 July 2012). His father had been an MNA thrice from Ferozewala and Narang Mandi areas of Sheikhupura district in Punjab.

Chapter 7 The State Response

1. I have coined STOP formula in Pakistan's terrorism context. But it can be applicable in similar situations in other countries as well.
2. Home Office, Government of the UK. Available at http://security.homeoffice.gov.uk/news-.
3. British Intelligence, p. 9.
4. Ministry of Finance. Government of Pakistan. Available at www.mofa.gov/fm (accessed February 2010).
5. The success of a terrorist organisation in threatening and carrying out attacks depends critically on the resources it accumulates to support its cause: a network of supporters; financial capital; weapons, explosives and materiel; destructive know-how; a communications network; the tacit approval or even active encouragement of a state or states; trained personnel and a sufficient number of recruits willing to risk prison or death. These aspects must be kept in mind to formulate a strong CT strategy.
6. Interview with Tariq Zulqarnain, former Civil Judge/Lawyer, based at Lahore, on 29 June 2012.

Chapter 8 Irritants and Impediments

1. Interview with Saeed Elahi MPA, Punjab Assembly.
2. Ibid.
3. The Long War Journal.
4. Available at http://pk.msn.com/news/localnews/jg/2012/january/12464880/drone-attacks-unlawful-unacceptable-pakistan.aspx?region=pk.&featuredpk.
5. Ibid.
6. Abbas (2005, pp. 220–1).
7. Pakistan Intelligence source.

Chapter 9 The Existential Threat

1. IPS 24 December 2007.
2. According to a research, 34 per cent of PTSD among the survivors of Oklahoma City Bombing 1995 was the highest of all the disasters. Rates of PTSD in other studies were 2 per cent following a tornado, 28 per cent after a mass shooting episode and 29 per cent after a plane crash into a hotel. 'Psychiatric disorder