S. Kalyanaraman is Research Fellow at the Manohar Parrikar Institute for Defence Studies and Analyses, New Delhi. His research focus is India's defence and security policies. He is Visiting Member of Faculty at India's National Defence College, Army War College, and Sushma Swaraj Institute of Foreign Service, as well as Bhutan's Royal Institute for Governance and Strategic Studies.

Rohan Mukherjee is an assistant professor of political science at Yale-NUS College, Singapore. His research focuses on the grand strategies of rising powers and their impact on international security and order, with an empirical specialisation in South Asia and East Asia. He is the co-editor of Poised for Partnership: Deepening India-Japan Relations in the Asian Century (2016).

S. D. Muni is Professor Emeritus at Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. He was Visiting Research Professor with the Institute of South Asian Studies, National University of Singapore (2008–2013). He served as India's Special Envoy to Southeast Asian countries on UN Security Council Reforms (2005–06) and as India's Ambassador to Laos PDR (1997–1999). In 2005, the Sri Lankan President bestowed on him the Sri Lanka Ratna, the highest civilian honour for a non-national. Author and editor of about two dozen books, Professor Muni has also published numerous research papers and articles in various academic journals of repute.

Harsh V. Pant is Director, Studies and Head of the Strategic Studies Programme at Observer Research Foundation, New Delhi. He holds a joint appointment with the Department of Defence Studies and King's India Institute as Professor of International Relations at King's College London. He is also a non-resident fellow with the Wadhwani Chair in US–India Policy Studies at the Center for Strategic and International Studies, Washington, DC. His