institutions are depicted in Figure 9.3. A complete list of the different regional or subregional organisations and initiatives within the Indo-Pacific is too long to be included here. However, among the most important ones are APEC (established in 1989), ASEAN (established in 1967), ASEAN Regional Forum (ARF), ASEAN Defence Ministers' Meeting-Plus, and East Asia Summit (established in 2005). The latter is composed of Australia, China, India, Japan, New Zealand, and the United States, in addition to the 10 ASEAN member states.