had felt in the garden against my dad all those years ago; no bigger and no smaller. What Nasser didn't tell me is that months later, when I get him out as the second of a hat-trick against Essex, hitting him on the boot, he goes back to the dressing room and tells his teammates, in a rage, 'He never does that when I ask him.'