precedents of the attack on the Soviet Union, Pearl Harbor, or 9/11. What happened to us?

It appears that Hamas and Iranian military planners developed new ways to coordinate their operations, ones that didn't rely on communication methods that Israel expected and could easily intercept. Moreover, the country was increasingly distracted by recent incidents in the West Bank and the attention lavished on settlers and settlements by Netanyahu's messianic coalition, whose judicial overhaul undoubtedly also bears some responsibility, because of the internal divisions it created.

The European Union put a hold on the annual financial assistance it provides the Palestinians. Up to now, Hamas did not seem to be lacking funds. Netanyahu calls on all parties to join a national coalition government. The official number of Israelis massacred now stands at 900, with 2,200 seriously wounded.

According to the latest news, Hamas militants have again breached the "unbreachable" security fence and penetrated somewhere in the South.

Tuesday, October 10

It has been reported that Hamas used pickup trucks for its first penetration in the South. Apart from transporting the terrorists, these trucks were used to obstruct key crossroads and passageways in a successful attempt to hamper rescue efforts in the area. What does that mean? That in the whole Gaza periphery, there wasn't a single Israeli tank, a single armored car, a single bulldozer! And if there was, apparently no one up or down the chain of command had the presence of mind to order their use.

Emerging details of the attacks are horrifying: they raped some of the female hostages and then killed them, and it is almost impossible to keep a modicum of common sense and remember that Hamas is not the equivalent of Palestinians but a fanatical Islamist faction of the Palestinian people.
