Acknowledgments

I wish to thank my friends and colleagues Carlo Ginzburg and Sanjay Subrahmanyam for having introduced me to Tom Hazeldine at Verso. I wish to thank Verso for agreeing to publish this book, notwithstanding our, hopefully small, differences of opinion. I wish to thank Amir Kenan, editor and writer in the School of Professional Studies at Columbia University, for his initial editing of my text. I also wish to thank my son David for his careful reading of the text and his remarks. Finally, I wish to express my gratitude to my wife, Orna Kenan, for her constant support throughout a work that often meant, for both of us as Israelis, dealing with painful news. This book is dedicated to her.