situation on the eve of Ramadan. Israel apparently promised not to build in the territories during the coming four months. And what happens after that?

Israeli TV news Channel 14, always a source of right-wing news and conspiracy theories, somewhat like Fox News in the States, is becoming the most popular channel in the country. Recently, they informed their viewers that the CIA was behind the demonstrations against the judicial overhaul … This is a dangerous development, and only determined court action can put an end to it.

Rotman (chairman of the judiciary committee) came up with some ideas of his own about how to soften the judicial overhaul. Netanyahu is supposedly considering Rotman's proposal to allow the Judicial Appointments Committee with its coalition majority to replace two liberal justices of the Supreme Court, including its president, Hayut, with more conservative ones. After two years, the committee will consider a widening of the committee's membership. The other laws of the overhaul package would be delayed in the meantime. It would be very strange if the opposition was ready to discuss a proposal manifestly aimed to get Netanyahu and Deri onto safe ground.

Biden spoke to Netanyahu, for the first time in three months. It seems clear that the PM will not get the prized invitation to the White House while the judicial overhaul is a source of internal discord, and as long as efforts to de-escalate tension with the Palestinians are not seriously implemented. Good for Biden.

The main strategist of the Islamic Jihad was killed in Damascus, probably by Israeli operatives.
