Lillehammer affair, 341
Lior, Israel, 290
Lipkin-Shahak, Amnon, 144, 169, 171, 312, 351, 352
Lloyd, Selwyn, 257
Lod (Israel), 241–42
London Agreement (July 1987), 179–80, 353

MAD (Mutual Assured Destruction), xviii, 54
Madrid Conference (1991), 181, 218
Majlis (Iranian parliament), 94, 99
Man Called Intrepid, A (Stephenson), 150
Mapai (Labor party), 128, 139–40, 244–45
Mapam (Labor party), 128, 244–45
Marshall, George, 270
Marwan, Ashraf, 279, 280, 285, 289–90, 297, 298, 300
Marx, Groucho, 350
Mazen, Abu, 217
media: amplifying radical Islam's threat potential, xvi-xvii, 74; censorship debate, 151–57; classic questions regarding, 147–49; during the First Gulf War, 152–53; freedom of speech–security tension, 150–60; impact on national strength, 147–48; impact on social values, 14, 151; institutions watching, 151–52; and the internet, 160–61; in Iran, 99; journalism compared to other professions, 147; and national security, 145–67; negative aspects of, 154; public opinion on, 152–53; reporting on enemy's point of view, 149; during the Second Lebanon War, 325; on the security-morality debate, 229–30; during September 11 attacks, 148; during the Vietnam War, 152 media (Israeli): censorship debate, 150–57; following the Yom Kippur War, 295–96; impact on national agenda, 147; impact on national morale, 147, 320; impact on social values, 151; during the Jordanian peace process, 181, 189; during Rabin's visit to China, 190; and Rabin's visit to Indonesia, 192–93; recklessness of, 156; during the Second Lebanon War, 319, 320, 325; on the security-morality debate, 229–30; during the Yom Kippur War, 285
Meir, Golda, 139, 140, 262–65, 296–301
Menem, Carlos, 46–47
Merkel, Angela, 58–59
MI6 (British foreign intelligence service), 23, 314–15
Michelmore, Laurence, 265–66
military doctrine (Israel): building blocks of, 127–28; decisive victory doctrine, 130, 211, 307, 317; deterrence, 127, 211; early warning, 127; expansion of, 129; following War of Independence, 126–29; formation of, 126–29; impact of First Gulf War on, 317; moving the war into enemy territory, 127–28, 317; offensive defense doctrine, 128, 131; pre-Israeli state doctrine, 128–29; prevention strategy in, 308–9; "subjugate/vanquish" principle, 127. See also national security doctrine (Israel)
Military Intelligence (MI): annual intelligence assessment (January 1991), 5; areas of responsibility, 26, 134–37, 276–78, 305; "concept" theory, 296; connections to law enforcement agencies, 26; early days, 133–37; EEIs of, 7, 134–37, 276–78, 305, 306; establishment of, 133–34; HUMINT unit of, 87; in Idan Hadash forum, 309; impact of Agranat Commission, 6–7, 139, 305–6; as intelligence collection agency, 26, 355; in intelligence community hierarchies, 31, 133–34, 276–78; and the Iraqi nonconventional threat, 312–14; and the Jordanian peace agreement, 182; relationship between the Mossad and, 142–45, 349–50; research and assessments of, 6, 7, 26, 134–38, 305; responsibilities of head of, 277; during Shavit's tenure as director, 144–45; on the