for the regeneration of Asia. That role belonged to China, but China would have to bide its time before realizing its ambitions. Current Chinese perceptions of India have been influenced by encounters with India and Indians during the British colonial period, a subject that will be explored in the next chapter.

The more widely used term for denoting the Guomindang is KMT which is based on its Cantonese pronunciation.

Opening address by Mao Zedong, Chairman of the Chinese Communist Party, at the First Plenary Session of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference, as quoted in 'The Chinese People Have Stood Up! 1949', USC US-China Institute, USC Annenberg School for Communication.

Amar Farooqi, Opium City: The Making of Early Victorian Bombay, Three Essays Press, 2006.

'The Revolutionary Army' by Zou Rong, in What is China? Territory, Ethnicity, Culture and History, Ge Zhaoguang, ed., Harvard University Press, 2018.