rejuvenation. Constant concessions will only invite more bullying and humiliation. [16]

This is not the language of a confident power.

Xi Jinping has significantly reversed several of the political and economic reforms brought in by Deng Xiaoping, and this is reflected in the latest Resolution. What do these reverses presage for the future of China and its relationship with the world? These will be considered in a final chapter, which will look ahead at China's likely trajectory over this decade and beyond.
