repeated? So I lay and pondered on that March night, and in my heart there was a great emptiness as of something precious gone, almost beyond recall.

"This is the way the world ends,
Not with a bang, but a whimper."