We have learned how to create migrations, models, seeders, controllers, and views to interact with the database. We have also learned how to use Bootstrap for styling the views.

We have also learned how to use Eloquent ORM to define relationships between models and how to use those relationships to fetch related data.

We have also learned how to use Laravel’s built-in features such as routing, validation, and authentication to build a complete web application.