Operation Anadyr succeeded, and MRBMs and IRBMs remained undetected until fully operational, Khrushchev would have announced their presence when he visited Havana in late November or at the UN in December. Whether West Berlin was a principal target in May, by December Khrushchev would have occupied a very different political and psychological space from which to launch a new initiative on Berlin.