173. ‘Unless we drive Afghanistan into the arms of the Bolsheviks, we have, I believe, little or nothing to fear from Bolshevik influence in Afghanistan’, TNA/FO371/3991/166259, Letter from Hamilton Grant to Simla, 6 Sept. 1919.

174. Olson, op. cit., p. 225.

175. BL/MSS/Eur/E264/5, Letter from Chelmsford to Montagu, 8 Oct. 1919.

176. TNA/FO371/3990/84239, Letter from Viceroy to the Amir of Afghanistan, 3 June 1919.

Chapter 3: A Nice State of Affairs, 1920

1. Curzon gained sole control of the Foreign Office when Balfour retired as Foreign Secretary in October 1919.

2. TNA/FO371/4909/C8788, Times article on Lord Curzon’s speech to the Central Asiatic Society, 14 Oct. 1920.

3. Darwin, Britain , p. 30.

4. For more on this see: Macfarlane, op. cit., pp. 126–52.

5. Mowat, op. cit., pp. 24–5.

6. Ibid ., pp. 38–9.

7. Darwin, ‘Fear of Falling’, p. 27.

8. The Triple Alliance comprised the National Union of Mineworkers, the National Transport Workers’ Federation and the National Union of Railwaymen: Mowat, op. cit., p. 42.

9. Jeffrey, British Army , p. 28.