158. TNA/FO371/6748/N8906, Telegram from Reading to Montagu, 30 July 1921.

Chapter 5: A Gigantic Drum, 1922–1923

1. White, ‘Baku Congress’, pp. 506–13.

2. White, ‘Colonial Revolution’, pp. 177–8.

3. Spector, op. cit., p. 101.

4. Von Laue, op. cit., p. 241.

5. White, ‘Soviet Russia’, pp. 221–2.

6. In the opinion of Spector ‘as yet, inadequate recognition has been given to the role of Turkey, Iran and Afghanistan, weak and divided though they were, in stemming the tide of communism in the Muslim world’. Spector, op. cit., p. 102.

7. Zirinsky, op. cit., p. 650.

8. Ghani, op. cit., pp. 253–4. Loraine was to become one of Britain’s greatest diplomats, serving under seven Foreign Ministers and in a variety of highly important posts.

9. ‘You are a brick and I know you will realise from his [Curzon’s] letter of some time ago how completely you enjoy his confidence.’ TNA/FO1011/10, Letter from Oliphant to Loraine, 28 Sept. 1922.

10. TNA/FO1011/44, Letter from Curzon to Loraine, 30 May 1922.

11. TNA/FO1011/124, Letter from Loraine to Gertrude Bell, 1 Dec. 1922.

12. White, ‘Soviet Russia’, p. 221.