25. TNA/FO1011/124, Letter from Loraine to Lieutenant-Colonel Prideaux, 16 Jan 1922.

26. TNA/FO371/7802/E233, Minute by Oliphant, 9 Jan. 1922.

27. Indeed, by 1925 Reza Khan would have deposed the Shah and set himself upon the throne of Persia.

28. TNA/FO371/6404/E6040, Telegram from Norman, 25 May 1921 and Ghani, op. cit., p. 217.

29. TNA/FO371/7802/E102, Memorandum by Oliphant on Interview with Armitage-Smith, 2 Jan. 1922.

30. TNA/FO371/7804/E3079, Telegram from Loraine, 31 March 1922.

31. Zirinsky, op. cit., p. 653.

32. TNA/FO371/7804/E3079, Memorandum by W.A. Smart, 22 Jan. 1922.

33. Zirinsky, op. cit., p. 658. For more information on Loraine's relationship with Reza Shah and his involvement in helping the minister's ascendance to the Persian crown see ibid ., pp. 649–57.

34. TNA/FO371/7802/E909, Telegram from Loraine, 24 Jan. 1922. TNA/ FO371/7804/E3079, Memorandum by W.A. Smart, 22 Jan. 1922.

35. Once he had later become ruler of Persia, Reza Khan would in fact break up the small Persian Communist Party and arrest its members. White, 'Soviet Russia', p. 228.

36. TNA/FO371/7805/E4712, Telegram from Loraine, 20 Feb. 1922.

37. TNA/FO371/7806/E6588, Report on Persian Situation by Loraine, 7 May 1922.

38. TNA/FO1011/124, Letter from Loraine to Lindsay, 7 Dec. 1922. Again, Loraine identifies that tradition of Persian officials to try and use Britain's and Russia's interests in their country for their own ends.