3. Eventually, the town of Stalinstadt was changed to Eisenhuttenstadt and Stalinallee was rechristened as Karl-Marx-AIlee and Frankfurter Allee.

4. The hotly tempered Schirdewan was already acquainted with Khrushchev and the pair enjoyed a cordial relationship, while Ulbricht distrusted him – primarily because he had been locked up in Nazi concentration camps during the war – rather than working in Soviet service, making him ‘unreliable’.

Highflyer

1. Honecker Cross Examined . p.114

2. Skizze seines politischen Lebens. p.104

3. Ibid. p.106

4. Lippmann. p.179

5. Borkowski. p.249

6. Brandt Heinz autobiography. p.326, cited from Volklein. p.259

7. From 1985 to 1989 Wolfgang Herger was head of the department for security issues of the Central Committee of the SED and the first civilian head of this department.

Endless Flight

1. Berlin, ADN, Radioteletype. 29 April 1959. FBIS-FRB-59-088