

The entire SED apparatus – including Honecker – worked from the Central Committee building on Werderscher Markt in the former Reichsbank for which Adolf Hitler had personally laid the foundation stone in 1934. This concrete behemoth became the supreme centre of power in the German Democratic Republic. (Nathan Morley)