

To deter West Germans from throwing stones at border guards, Honecker approved the deployment of several water cannon trucks, the drenching's caused many protestors to avoid engaging in demonstrations at the Wall.