Applause greeted Honecker’s 1971 announcement of a massive building programme that, he said, would see the construction, modernization, and conversion of five hundred thousand apartments over the next five years.

