All his life, Honecker was drawn to the forests. With his power base secure, more time was devoted to pleasurable pursuits such as hunting – a pastime he indulged with pathological devotion. Here pictured with Brezhnev.