part, alienation and anger were both expressed and it was therefore decided to ask participants directly. The Urdu word used, naraz, can be translated both as 'anger' and as 'alienation'.

20 This focus group included participants from Lahore.

21 It has not improved either as the UNDP National Youth survey published in 2017 clearly states, 'The overwhelming belief is that chance of birth or geography or fate determines out-comes, and that powerful others control their lives' (p. 108).

22 Ayub introduced the system of "basic democracies" in 1960. It consisted of a network of local self-governing bodies to provide a link between the government and the people. Primary governing units were set up to conduct local affairs; their members were elected by constituencies of 800–1,000 adults.

23 See Anatol Lieve, Pakistan a Hard Country, as well as work by Peter Lyon on patronage politics in Pakistan.

24 This focus group included participants from Hyderabad, Sukkur and Karachi.

25 This focus group included participants from Hyderabad, Sukkur and Karachi.

26 Online survey.

27 Islam's forte and its future.

28 This focus group included participants from Lahore, Kasur, Kanganpur, Dera Ghazi Khan, Rajanpur and Rawalpindi.

29 An Islamic state which is now only Islamic in name.

30 This focus group included participants from Lahore, Sheikhupura, Muridke, Dera Ghazi Khan and Sargodha.

31 This focus group included participants from Hyderabad, Sukkur and Karachi.

32 This focus group included participants from Hyderabad, Sukkur and Karachi.

33 Online survey.

34 The Youth Parliament (www.youthparliament.pk) was created 'to engage youth in Pakistan in healthy discourse and expose them to the democratic process and practices'. PILDAT (Pakistan Institute of Legislative Development and Transparency) launched the project of first-ever Youth Parliament Pakistan in 2007. Members of Youth Parliament Pakistan are selected for duration of a year at a time. The first batch of Youth Parliament Pakistan was selected in 2007 and since then Youth Parliament has had three batches, including the 2007 batch, the 2008–2009 batch and the 2009–2010 batch. This is not the only Youth Parliament – see www.pkhope.com/youth-ambassador-of-geo-jang-sms-registration-ali-moeen-nawazish/.

35 The PTI promised 25 per cent of all parliamentary tickets at national and provincial level to the youth – which is also why it is seen as the most pro-youth party.

36 The British Council study included a sample of over 5,000 young Pakistanis through a survey undertaken by the Nielsen Corporation.

37 British Council NGBB Data Pack National, slide 13.