

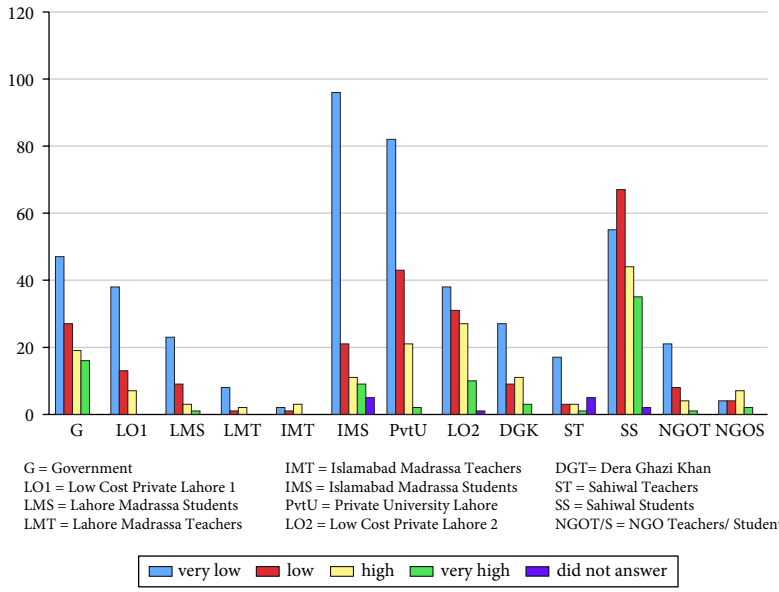

Figure 2.2a Punjab: How politically 'active' are you?

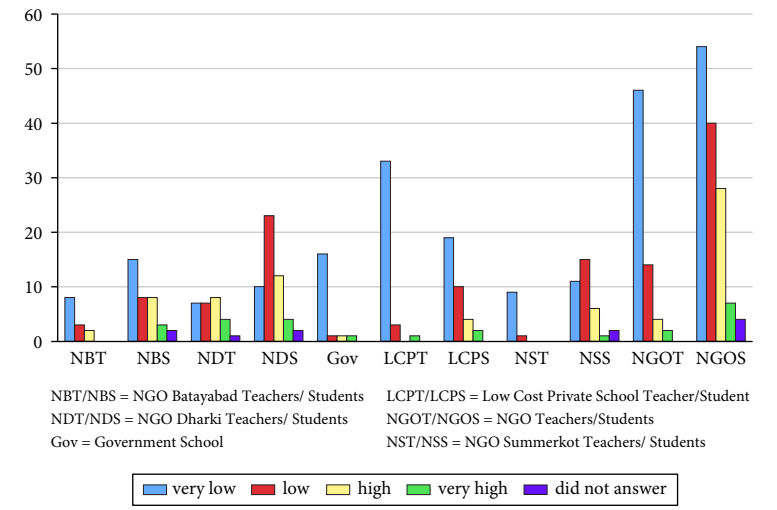

Figure 2.2b Sindh: How politically 'active' are you?

Exploring the data across rural areas and smaller and larger cities suggests that people in rural and smaller localities were more involved in politics as compared to the big cities. Young people in a small city in Southern Punjab, for example, said they were actively involved in various campaigns. However, participants also included individuals who belonged to political families, therefore were part