            $this->error('Exception occurred: ' . $e->getMessage());

            return 1;

        $this->info('Image archival process completed successfully.');

        return 0;

    }

```

The above script uses the Symfony Process component to execute your shell script. The command checks for the existence of the script, runs it, and handles any errors by logging them to the console.
