37 Paper prepared by the 5412 Committee, March 16, 1960. FRUS 1958–60, VI, pp. 850–1.

38 Turkel, July 1, 1959. FRUS 1958–60, VI, pp. 546–8.

39 New York Times, February 20, 1960; February 19, 1960. Also cited in Blum, Killing Hope.

40 New York Times, March 5, 1960; March 6, 1960.

41 For a useful chronology of events, with access to many declassified documents, see the National Security Archives website at George Washington University, www.gwu.edu/~nsarchiv/bayofpigs/chron.html. See also Kornbluh, Bay of Pigs Declassified.

42 Hunt, Give Us This Day, p. 40.

43 Hunt, Give Us This Day, p. 45.

44 He describes this month-long infiltration in Rodriguez and Weisman, Shadow Warrior, pp. 71–82. CIA agent Rolando Martínez, who I have quoted elsewhere, was the one who picked him up and brought him back to the United States (p. 82).

45 Rodriguez and Weisman, Shadow Warrior, p. 84.

46 Hunt, Give Us This Day, p. 38.

47 Paterson, "Fixation with Cuba," p. 133. He cites an interview with Richard Bissell by Lucien Vandenbroucke, May 18, 1984, in U.S. Congress, Senate, Alleged Assassination Plots, and Thomas Powers, "Inside the Department of Dirty Tricks," Atlantic Monthly CCXLIV (August 1979), p. 40.

48 Nitze Report, quoted in Schoultz, That Infernal Little Cuban Republic, p. 172.

49 Branch and Crile, "The Kennedy Vendetta," p. 50.

50 McNamara testimony, July 11, 1975, in U.S. Congress, Senate, Alleged Assassination Plots, p. 158.

51 Corn, Blond Ghost, is a comprehensive biography of Shackley. Chapter 4 details the period during which he directed the Miami station.

52 Branch and Crile, "The Kennedy Vendetta," pp. 51–2. Rodriguez confirms the immense, and unique, nature of the Miami operation: