at the University of Pennsylvania and the Monument Lab team, including Laurie Allen, Meghna Chandra, Clare Fisher, Stephanie Garcia, Justin Geller, Kristen Giannantonio, William Hodgson, Matt Neff, Sebastianna Skalisky, Yannick Trapman-O'Brien, and Victoria Karkov, I am extremely fortunate for the work we do together in Philadelphia and beyond. Thank you to Dinah Berland and Gretchen Dykstra for your expert eyes on these pages.

Throughout this process, I have also been greatly uplifted, empowered, and challenged by mentors. Salamishah Tillet is a guiding light and dear soul. Through your indispensable critical work and stellar advice, you offer a profound form of love that inspires me to keep pushing. Thank you for taking me under your wing. Ken Lum is a kindred spirit who opens doors for me and many others. Our shared passion for public art and history has spawned some of my wildest dreams as a curator and organizer. Alan Light is a steadfast and generous interlocutor. He is an encyclopedic source and supremely kind. Howard Winant and Deborah Rogow, you are beyond bighearted and wise. Your long-standing support means so much to me. Michael Eric Dyson and Marcia L. Dyson, thank you for all your wisdom and love and for keeping me on my toes with your kibitzing and critical thought. Others to whom I owe much and express great appreciation include Jeremy Braddock, Anthony DeCurtis, Jonathan Flatley, Anne Gerbner, Jane Golden, Richard Grusin, Hope Harrison, Paul Hendrickson, Marc Lamont Hill, Maria Höhn, Hua Hsu, Michael Kimmelman, Axel Klausmeier, Andy Lamas, André Robert Lee, Heather Love, Carl Nightingale, Imani Perry, James Braxton Peterson, Meg Rabinowitz, Kirk Savage, Jamel Shabazz, Aishah Shahidah Simmons, Elaine Simon, and Nathan Smith. Rest in power, Byron Davis, Oni Faida Lampley, and Eric Schneider.

To complete this project, I visited a constellation of archives, libraries, and galleries. I greatly benefited from individuals at these sites who helpfully and generously guided my research process. This group includes Matthew Murphy and Michael Shulman at Magnum Photos; Bruce Silverstein and his staff at Bruce Silverstein Gallery; staff at the Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library at Yale University; Kathy Alberts at the Kennedys Museum in Berlin; the Hoover Institution at Stanford University; Julie Herrada at the Labadie Collection at the University of Michigan; Joellen ElBashir at the Moorland-Spingarn Research Center at Howard