The American Berliners of the past and present map, create around and over, and seek to dismantle the walls of our own.