Davis," http://www.usprisonculture.com/blog/2012/08/21/the-legacy-of-george-jackson-a-eulogy-by-angela-davis/.

58. National United Committee to Free Angela Davis, "Freed by the People," iv–v, Sc MG 410, ADLDC.

59. Branton interview.

60. Toni Morrison to Bettina Aptheker, June 27, 1972, MS#1048, box 1261, RHC.

61. Contract, Bantam Books, September 8, 1972, MS#1048, box 1261, RHC.

62. Agreement, Bantam Books and Random House, January 31, 1973, MS#1048, box 1261, RHC.

63. Toni Morrison to Bernard Geis, April 18, 1973, MS#1048, box 1261, RHC.

64. Silberman wrote Morrison on May 7, 1973, "I looked at some more of the Angela Davis manuscript and it seems to me generally good. It does, of course, need editing—particularly in those spots where the author lapses into vocabulary of the academic. But she does create scenes vividly and with your help they can be even more vivid." Morrison left detailed notes for revision. During this period, it seemed that the book took on new shape and gained a new title and new chapter structure. See James Silberman to Toni Morrison, May 7, 1973, MS#1048, box 1261, RHC.

65. "Angela Davis and Toni Morrison: Literacy, Libraries, Liberation," New York Public Library Video, October 27, 2010, http://www.nypl.org/events/programs/2010/10/27/angela-davis-toni-morrison.

66. Several rounds of incomplete editorial notes and line-edited pages can be found in RHC. The Toni Morrison Papers, held at Princeton University, contain a set of line-edited pages that include the section of the book "Waters" with the section on Davis's trip to Cold War Berlin. There is no cover page available in this folder to ascertain dates or details of these revisions. At this archive, some correspondence between Morrison and Davis will be made available at a later, undetermined date. Further, Harvard University has announced its procurement of Davis's own papers, and a preview image made available for press included line-edited sheets of the autobiography. At the time of this publication, the archive is closed for public access. See box 101, folder 8, TMP.

67. Morrison to Silberman, February 1, 1974, MS#1048, box 1261, RHC.

68. Ibid.

69. On March 13, Morrison wrote Aptheker with an update stating, "Angela's book is now complete (more or less). We are still hoping to publish in June, but there may be some delay" (Morrison to Aptheker, March 13, 1974, MS#1048, box 1261, RHC).

70. Receipts, correspondence between Morrison and (Jan) Tigner, July 31, 1974, and letters from Morrison to Ellison and Angelou, MS#1048, box 1260, RHC.

71. Perkins, Autobiography as Activism, 7.

72. Davis, Angela Davis, 17.

73. Ibid., 36.

74. Ibid., 42–43.

75. Ibid., 78.

76. Ibid., 103.

77. Ibid., 117.

78. Ibid., 141.

79. Ibid., 138.

80. Ibid., 250–58.

81. Ibid., 269.

82. Ibid., 281.

83. Ibid., 305.

84. Ibid., 328.

85. Ibid., 396.

86. Ibid., 398.

87. For more on the Privacy Act, see Nelson, Pursuing Privacy in Cold War America.