18. The expression “Sisterhood is Powerful” became the title of the first American feminist anthology, edited by radical feminist Robin Morgan, founder of the New York Radical Women group. Robin Morgan, ed., Sisterhood is Powerful (New York: Random House, 1970).

19. Leila Beckwith, “Bias Colors UC Santa Cruz Department,” Jewish Journal, 4 Feb. 2005. Beckwith reported that on 21 October 2004, the Women’s Studies Department at UC Santa Cruz had sponsored a talk by Hedy Epstein on “The Question of Israel/Palestine,” in which she compared Israel to a Nazi state and excused suicide bombing. The same department declined to cosponsor a talk on campus on the same topic with Nonie Darwish, an Arab writer critical of the Arab world’s attitude to Israel, and founder of Arabs for Israel.

20. BDS, the global campaign attempting to increase outlaw Israel through economic, cultural, and political boycott, was launched in 2005 by Palestinians, and soon spread worldwide. Butler was attacked for statements she had made about Hamas and Hezbollah, and defending “Hezbollah and Hamas as progressive organizations” as well as supporting their tactics. 25. The law defining Holocaust denial as a criminal offense was passed in 1990 as an amendment to an 1881 law on freedom of the press. This law prohibits both antisemitism (Law 90-615) and denying the Holocaust (Article 24b, la loi Gayssot). Another law adopted in 2003 sets stiffer punishments for antisemitic or racist offenses (Law no. 2003-88 of February 2003). In addition, in 2003, the French Government established a permanent inter-ministerial commission to coordinate the activities of the Government in combating antisemitism and racism. http://www.antisemitism.org.il/eng/Legislation%20Against%20Antisemitism%20and%20Denial%20of%20the%20Holocaust. It should also be noted that BDS is illegal in France. The Lellouche law, passed in 2003, extended anti-racism laws to include the targeting of specific nations for discriminatory treatment.
