military presence in Europe after World War II by claiming to protect Jews from the antisemitic European elites.

But Holocaust denial is not Dzhemal's goal in itself. He uses it to pave the way to replacing the issue of the Jewish genocide by alleging an ongoing Palestinian genocide. In an April 2009 interview concerning the position taken by then-Iranian president and well-known Holocaust denier Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, he noted:

> Israel is a fascist state that transformed the issue of Holocaust into a religious postulate, relying on its lobby first of all in the European countries to persecute those who try to deal with the history of this issue. Actually, this way it completely falsified the norm of freedom of speech and democracy in the European Union, and under the cover of this quasi-religious postulate carried out its crimes, systematically carried out the genocide of the Palestinian people.[20]

He blamed Palestinian Chairman Mahmoud Abbas and Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak for betraying the Palestinian people by negotiating with the Israeli delegation headed by its Minister of Foreign Affairs, Avigdor Lieberman. According to Dzhemal, Hamas is the only legal representative of the Palestinians. He concludes the interview by repeating the necessity of establishing a united Palestinian state that will guarantee the civil rights of Arabs and Jews and the right of return of Palestinian refugees.

Presenting Hamas as the only legitimate representative of the Palestinians, he tries to bring it closer to Russia. In 2010 Dzhemal considered the visit of the Hamas delegation to Russia as a "gift to Moscow" at the time of the crisis of the Israeli state that was collaborating with the traitor of the Palestinian People—Mahmoud Abbas.[21] This was not at all surprising, if we recall that four years previously, in 2006, he described the real face of Hamas as "human, civilized and beautiful."[22]

However, Dzhemal's final goal is not dismantling Israel or even the establishment of the Palestinian State. The biggest challenge for him is World Jewry. In November 2012, he declared that Jews had created the common ideological system in the West in which Jews are taken as holy and infallible, even replacing Jesus as the "perfect victim." Therefore, he sees the delegitimization of Israel as an essential component in the global struggle against World Jewry that symbolizes the modern civil religion.[23] An important step in this global war is to drive a wedge between Israel and the Diaspora. Following this logic, the collapse of Israel would be only the first step in the decline of World Jewry and finally, of the United States.
